Examines the impact of product quality on warranty and maintenance costs and strategies, from the perspectives of both manufacturers and users. Discusses theories of warranty and preventive maintenance, and investigates what exactly better quality means, how it impacts warranty policies and costs for the manufacturer, and how it effects placement and maintenance strategies and costs for users. Main concepts and tools used for measuring quality improvement are those of stochastic ordering and mixture models. Theoretical base of the work is a time-varying failure-rectification process. When a boat carrying two passengers capsizes in a logjam on Lake Coeur d'Alene, it is Martha, the narrator and central character of the interrelated stories of Limited Lifetime Warranty, who hears the strangers' cries for help from the bow of her family's own boat. In the aftermath of the rescue, she and her father, mother, and older sister retell the story again and again. It is an evening that forever defines the constellation of their family. "So I became the heroine of hearing," Martha says. "I hear tragedy coming, and I point the way to rescue." Her mother became the bearer of light, and her father, who steered around the treacherous logs, became "the one who kept us afloat." When Martha's father dies suddenly and her sister, Becky, suffers brain damage from an anesthesia accident, the family founders, and it is Martha who must return the rest of the family to an even keel. As the events of Martha's life unfold, she learns from women who move through life with indomitable spirit. From the aging weaver Mrs. Althausser she learns to make something beautiful out of rags and scraps. From ten-year-old Marci, whose father is dying of cancer, she learns that the best way to face a terrible thing is to stare it down. Finally, hearing and heeding the call of her heart, Martha chooses veterinary school over medical school. Forsaking fluffy poodles and foreign-born cats for farm
